

PATHWAYS AT YU

B.A./M.S. IN JEWISH EDUCATION

Azrieli Graduate School of Jewish Education and Administration

Through the B.A./M.S. in Jewish Education, YU undergraduates can complete up to four graduate Jewish Education courses (12 credits) in their senior year that count towards both their undergraduate and graduate degrees, accelerating their path to the graduate degree and saving tuition along the way. After completing the bachelor's, students continue seamlessly on to complete the M.S. in Jewish Education at YU's Azrieli Graduate School of Jewish Education in as little as one more year.

ABOUT THE M.S. IN JEWISH EDUCATION

Azrieli's M.S. in Jewish Education prepares highly qualified educators for positions in Jewish day schools, yeshivot and other formal and informal Jewish education institutions. With flexible online and in-person program options and differentiated learning opportunities to meet our students' varied needs, Azrieli attracts both current and prospective Jewish educators from across the globe.

Azrieli's 36-credit program includes 7 core courses, 3 electives and a 6-credit student teaching practicum. To fulfill the 6-credit practicum requirements, students can find their own paid teaching position in their school of choice, or they can be placed by Azrieli in an unpaid position in a Jewish day school. The practicum experience includes on-site mentoring and supervision by an Azrieli supervisor, as well as peer-to-peer classroom observations and feedback.
